Nancy Wynne Goes to the Newbold Ball at the Ritz-Carlton—She Tells of the Hostesses' Gowns—She Hears Various Bits of Gossip and Interesting News

OF COURSE, the exciting thing yesterday was the ball which Mr. Newbold gave for Anna at the Ritz-Carlton, and it was a perfectly beautiful affair.

Her hair was arranged rather high, and it's very pretty and soft and brown. She looked stunning, I thought. Her sister, Mrs. Stephen Colburn, received with Anna and her father.

There were about 700 guests, so it was a ball and no mistake, and the decorations had been an entire surprise to her; that her father had done it all and seeing how perfectly beautiful it was.

The Gardner Cassatts gave a dinner before the ball for Anna and the Tom Ridgways also entertained. Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Herwind had a dinner for Dorothy Rodgers and Sam Reeves.

Helen Scott is the daughter of General Hugh Scott and Mrs. Scott, of Boston. She has been on here for a number of parties.

MRS. JOHN KING VAN RENSSAELER, of 157 East Thirty-seventh street, New York, formerly of this city, and fondness, you remember, of the "Hain Tampani," which I am not mistaken, was a society composed of those interested in woodcut engravings.

THERE'S another big dance tonight. This time we go to the Bellevue-Stratford. It's hard to keep them all straight, is it not? One night it's the Ritz; another the Bellevue; another the Hotel Cecil; another the Garden of the Junior Ballroom.

MR. H.—had a wonderful time on Sunday. Having nothing better to do, he hid him out to Haverford to skate on the pond.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES Mr. John Strawbridge will attend as guest man, and Mr. H. Morris Adams, Mr. Russell H. Johnson, Jr., Mr. John S. Stokes and Mr. Stephen G. Kent will attend as usher.

Foster, Miss Alice Sailer, Mr. Francis B. Reeves, Jr., Mr. John Reeves, Mr. William MacLennan, Mr. James Sailer and Mr. Harold Gade, Jr.

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE Bank Your Ideas

MONEY is not the only thing worth saving. Education is merely putting knowledge idly away where you can use it later.

The difference between good and bad education is the selection of the kind of knowledge to put in your mental bank.

Some men buy worthless stocks and bonds with their savings, and some accumulate worthless knowledge. The first sort end their lives in mental bankruptcy.

To most men, from time to time, come ideas of value. Often they come at a time when we are not equipped intellectually to develop them.

Don't reject or forget ideas of that kind merely because you feel that at the time you are unable to get anything out of them.

Put them away in your memory, if you think it is a trustworthy depository. Better still, put them into a note book that can be taken with you at all times.

Of course it is well to be sure that you have really the germ of an idea before you put it away.

Then, if you are not yet able to work it out, begin to get the equipment necessary to do so.

It is a slow, tedious and often apparently hopeless process. Perhaps, when it is completed, the idea will not seem as good as it did.

But if you are diligent you will have a number of them saved up, and one or two at least will be of use to you.

If you are continually on the lookout for a chance to do something for the world, the world will do something for you.

It rewards those who contribute to it. It punishes those who do not fight very hard for the living they get out of it.
